I have received a friends request/invitation to chat on social networking sites, Facebook, or in chat rooms from unknown people who soon invited me to a party or offered a job.

Results of the risk assessment

I would like to work abroad after high school as I could have a better income there.

Results of the risk assessment

I have already offered a job that was said to make a lot of money easily, or extraordinary salary without any requirement of education or specialised knowledge.

Results of the risk assessment

It happened to me that I didn't have any memory of a party the next day even though I hadn't drunk that much.

Results of the risk assessment

It happened to me that I was accosted on the street by an older man/woman with the aim to have a longer conversation.

- 1536 students were reached
- The impact assessment shows that 81% of participants increased their knowledge
- Significant changes were achieved in the knowledge of 42% of participant students

- Even though at least one third of teenagers are affected by abuse within their family, or exposed to risk factors of prostitution and human trafficking, their knowledge about the signs of danger or help organisations is often missing.
- These experiences underlie the importance of the prevention work in schools and the need for further programmes that allow an even deeper understanding of addressed topics.
