Conclusions (or the secret of success)

1. Old school police work

- Securing traces on site as soon as possible
- Storing the data and make it available nationwide
- Producing situation reports to discover offending patterns and groups
- Bringing police on the street at hot spots of offending, open and covered
- Centralising procedures at the public prosecution service to secure complex investigations (do not allow them to go the easy way)
- Improve international cooperation with countries of origin of travelling offenders

2. Improve technical protection of houses and flats

- ## 3. Increase penalties and open access to wire tapping operations and mobil network data to better identify organised perpetrators.
